

Clones

- Each clone gets information about the world.
- The clone expands using resources in the world.
- The clone fights with other clones and when it wins it receives information gathered by them.
- The clone might accept the members of defeated clone as its new members.
- The whole process determines how clones evolve to become superior and more intelligent.

